Module Description

This course pinpoints the qualitative analysis of inorganic compounds. Definitive aspects, characteristics, and reactions to identify groups of elements bearing the same atomic structural features will be explained. Rules and laws governing these reactions will be addressed. Some aspects of quantitative analysis will also be introduced and their relevance in pharmacy practice shall be explained.