Module Description

This course aims at getting the students acquainted with induced human body changes in response to sudden/emergent health disorders like shock, trauma and poisoning. Students will also learn necessary general first-aid procedures of providing quick, effective and professional lifesaving premedical aid.