

THE COP30 SIMULATION FELLOWSHIP

BECOME PART OF A POWERFUL YOUTH-LED MOVEMENT DRIVING REAL IMPACT: LOCALLY AND GLOBALLY

Are you a university student passionate about climate action?

Do you want to be part of the solution and help shape a more sustainable future?

To Brazil and beyond 🌍✈️

This isn't just a simulation, it's a knowledge-based movement. The Fellowship brings together young and informed climate advocates from around the world to collaborate, learn, and lead.

After impactful editions in collaboration with Zayed University (UAE) and ADA University (Azerbaijan), and with the ongoing support of key bodies like the UN High-Level Climate Champion to Egypt, the COP27 Egyptian Presidency, and several ministries and embassies, we are continuing our global journey to connect youth voices with real policy influence.

OUR FUTURE, OUR VOICE: RAISE THE BAR FOR #CLIMATEACTION

Get ready to amplify your voice, shape the future, and ignite action in your community, and beyond.

GET READY FOR THE COP30 SIMULATION FELLOWSHIP! 🌍

The British University in Egypt (BUE) and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) Egypt, together with global academic partners and leading national and international stakeholders, are proud to present the COP30 Simulation Fellowship Programme.

This immersive, certified programme brings together university students from across the globe to simulate the real sessions of COP30, engage with chief negotiators, country delegates, and international climate leaders, and draft powerful youth-driven climate declarations that are presented at the actual COP30.

WHY JOIN?

- ✓ Gain real-world experience in international climate negotiations and advocacy.
- ✓ Collaborate with global peers and interact with international climate actors and experts.
- ✓ Shape a declaration that feeds directly into the real COP30.
- ✓ Become part of a movement that's already made waves from Cairo to Dubai, to Baku, and now, to Brazil.

Youth voices matter. Your solutions matter. This is your chance to be heard on the world stage.

FELLOWSHIP ACTIVITIES:

1. A two-week online capacity-building programme offered by global academic institutions and organisations on climate literacy, youth-led climate action, diplomacy, debate and conflict resolution.
2. Mentored policy papers on climate-related themes, guided by Egyptian and International mentors from relevant academic and professional backgrounds.
3. COP30 Simulation Conference on the campus of The British University in Egypt. Around 150 students from across the world are invited to Egypt, to simulate country delegates, chief negotiators, and non-state actors. Discuss and vote on their research-based resolutions. Selected students are invited for a six-day stay in Egypt.
4. The COP30 Simulation declaration. The youth-voted resolutions are presented in the published declaration which is then presented at the actual COP30.
5. COP30 participation: Around 20 students are selected to present their outcomes and voted climate solutions at the actual COP30 blue and green zones sessions.
