

Cooperation between FEEE & ESS .

Within the framework of joint and fruitful cooperation between the Faculty of Energy and Environment Engineering at the British University and the Egyptian Engineering Syndicate (EES). A symposium was held by the Petroleum, Mining and Metals Division at the EES, with the attendance of:

- 1-Engineer Sabry El Sharkawy, head of the Petroleum and Mining Division of the General Syndicate of Engineers and a member of the Supreme Council of the Engineers Syndicate.
- 2-Engineer Mohamed Salah, member of the Supreme Council of the Engineers Syndicate, Petroleum Division.
- 3-Engineer Ahmed Arifa, member of the Supreme Council of the Engineers Syndicate.

4-Engineer Hamdi Nour, member of the Supreme Council of the Engineers Syndicate.

The guests were received by Professor Dr. Attia Attia, Dean of the faculty of Energy and Environmental Engineering, and the symposium witnessed an introduction to the role of the Syndicate, its history, goals, and its importance for community service and faculty graduates. It also included a lecture on the history and future of the oil and gas industry in Egypt and the world.

The head of the division, Eng. Sabry El-Sharkawy, expressed his happiness in establishing the Faculty of Energy and Environment Engineering and its effective role in graduating energy engineers and implementing the vision of Egypt 2030.
